

Acknowledgements

Tremendous thanks to all of the artists, the exhibition cocurators, Subhankar Banerjee and Josie Lopez, for their vision, hard work, and collaborative spirit; to the many artists, speakers, advisors, and partners from both sides of the border for their creativity, knowledge, wisdom, and generosity; to all of our friends in the Art & Ecology Program at UNM for their lead partnership on this major undertaking; to the Board of Directors of 516 ARTS, chaired by Danny Lopéz, for championing our work; and to the small but mighty staff of 516 ARTS—Claude Smith, Mackensie Lewis, and Viola Arduini—without whose teamwork and commitment to the ever-growing labor of this endeavor, it would not have been possible.

516 ARTS and the Art & Ecology Program at UNM extend special thanks to Brophy Toledo and Roger Fragua of Jemez Pueblo and Rosie Thunderchief at Valle de Oro National Wildlife Refuge for sharing their knowledge, co-organizing, participating in the public programs, and writing the Land Acknowledgment for this catalog. Thank you to journalist Laura Paskus for her extraordinary essay contribution. This catalog would not have been possible to produce in such a short amount of time without the stellar efforts of designer Karen Mazur, editor Josette Haddad, and printer Don Mickey Designs. We also thank Professor León De la Rosa of UACJ for engaging artists and professors in Ciudad Juárez, hosting meetings and conversations there, facilitating cross-border programs, and translating the exhibition wall text, call for artists, and materials throughout the organizing process. Big thanks to Marisa Sage, Director of the University Art Museum at NMSU, for leading the charge in Las Cruces; and to Kerry Doyle, Director of the Stanlee and Gerald Rubin Center for the Visual Arts at UTEP, for her committed work to make the cross-border mural project happen in both El Paso and Ciudad Juárez, along with Roger Peet of the Center for Biological Diversity (CBD). Thank you to CBD Executive Director Kierán Suckling for jumping in at multiple junctures in this project giving an opening address to inspire us all to take action. We thank Senators Tom Udall and Martin Heinrich and Representative Deb Haaland, who not only support the cause of this project but provide essential leadership at the state and national levels, and Albuquerque Mayor Tim Keller and Las Cruces Mayor Ken Miyagishima for signing municipal proclamations formally recognizing the importance of Species in Peril Along the Rio Grande for our cities and shared region.

This project is made possible by generous lead support from Lannan Foundation, McCune Charitable Foundation, and The FUNd at Albuquerque Community Foundation. Lannan Foundation and the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation also support our lead partner on this project, the Art & Ecology Program at UNM. We are honored to receive government support for this project at the federal level from the National Endowment for the Arts; at the state level from New Mexico Arts, a division of the Department of Cultural Affairs, and UNM's Art & Ecology Program and Office of the Provost; at the county level from Bernalillo County Commissioners Maggie Hart-Stebbins and Debbie O'Malley; and at the city level from Albuquerque Mayor Tim Keller, the Urban Enhancement Trust Fund, and the Albuquerque City Council, with special thanks to Councilor Isaac Benton. Additional support comes from the National Performance Network, our partners and collaborators at Valle de Oro National Wildlife Refuge and many generous local businesses, including Heritage Hotels and Resorts, the Hyatt Regency Albuquerque, Bella Roma B&B, Don Mickey Designs, FRAME+WORK, KUNM Radio 89.9 FM, Nusenda Credit Union, Petroglyph Creative, Slate Street Cafe, Southwest Contemporary, and Stubblefield Print & Signs, to name a few. Last but not least, I would like to thank all the members of the Friends of 516 ARTS, individual supporters whose annual contributions are invaluable to everything we do.
